Through Anaheim University's rich learning experiences and state of the art approach, students both new to digital filmmaking and looking to expand their filmmaking horizons will gain a greater appreciation for the history, theory and range of cinematic practices in global contexts, along with a full background in the most recent technologies of pre-production, production and post-production. Students will have the opportunity to experience aspects of Hollywood production practices through video interviews and real-time interactions with experts in various components of studio filmmaking, as well as interactions with those involved in other aspects of content production and distribution.

Notice Concerning Transferability of Units and Degrees Earned at our Institution

Anaheim University is accredited by the Distance Education Accrediting Commission (DEAC). The DEAC is listed by the U.S. Department of Education as a recognized accrediting agency and recognized by the Council for Higher Education Accreditation (CHEA). In general, qualifications from accredited universities are widely recognized; however, prospective students are advised to check with their respective school districts, state, professional organizations and government agencies when licensing and/or credentials are the eventual objective of the prospective student. It is entirely up to the discretion of the college, university or institution for which a student is seeking admission, to decide on the acceptance of the said student into a given degree program and the transferability of units and degrees to other institutions is not guaranteed. It is recommended that if transfer of credit or degree is the eventual goal of the prospective student, that the student contact all institutions in which the student is potentially interested in seeking enrollment. The transferability of credits you earn in the Anaheim University Akira Kurosawa School of Film is at the complete discretion of an institution to which you may seek to transfer. Acceptance of the Master in Fine Arts degree you earn is also at the complete discretion of the institution to which you may seek to transfer. If the credits or the MFA degree that you earn at this institution are not accepted at the institution to which you seek to transfer, you may be required to repeat some or all of your coursework at that institution. For this reason you should make certain that your attendance at this institution will meet your educational goals. This may include contacting an institution to which you may seek to transfer after attending Anaheim University to determine if your credits or degree will transfer.
